Updates to 2020 South Dakota State Fair’s 4-H Division as a Result of COVID-19
Changes listed in this document override any previously published documents
Published July 2, 2020

OVERVIEW

Introduction
Given the unprecedented challenges associated with COVID-19, we are pleased to offer a modified 4-H Division of the 2020 South Dakota State Fair! It will be a unique logistical challenge and we appreciate your adaptability in advance. To encourage a low risk event, necessary adjustments have been made to the 4-H State Fair Book that was published earlier this spring. Today’s document describes these changes so you can make informed decisions about your 4-H Division participation. Please read through this document carefully prior to enrolling any projects in this year’s 4-H Division.

Guiding Principles
Three guiding principles informed our decision-making in the determination of these adjustments:
1. The safety of 4-H participants, volunteers, and staff;
2. Maintaining program quality and our focus on positive youth development; and
3. Retaining as many in-person educational opportunities as reasonably doable, with additional consideration toward 4-H members at or near the conclusion of their 4-H journeys.

Adjusting a major 4-H event with only two months of lead-time is no one’s preference. We appreciate the 4-H community’s understanding and adaptability as we navigate this evolving situation together.

Items Not Covered
Changes listed in this document override any previously published documents. Otherwise, original guidance remains the same.

COVID-19 Precautions
SDSU Extension/4-H is committed to participating in and upholding the principles of public health in our events. Event leaders used guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, South Dakota Department of Health, and SDSU Guiding Principles in event decision-making. We also considered the wide range of locations from which our event participants originate. As a result and in accordance with evidence-based protocols, the following COVID-19 precautions will guide our approach to limit viral spread at 4-H Division events this year:

- Exhibitors who are sick or symptomatic should stay at home.
- To maintain physical distancing and relieve congestion, distances will increase between animal stalls and exhibitors in the arena. This will reduce the overall number of animals per exhibitor in most species. Shows/stalls/events that could not reasonably meet physical distancing guidelines while still maintaining program integrity have been cancelled, moved to another date, or virtualized.
Though we cannot close off our events within the broader context of State Fair, we discourage attendance by non-essential individuals. Arena seating will be significantly reduced. Audience members will be encouraged to watch their specific youth only and then leave the prime viewing zone. Hanging out/socializing in the barns is discouraged.

Within specified 4-H zones, facial coverings are strongly encouraged for exhibitors, crew, and audience. (Tip: Exhibitors should practice showing their animals while wearing a covering to be confident on show day in case safety standards re-strengthen by the time of State Fair. If needed, the only event exception will be for public presentations.)

Attendees will notice increased opportunities for hand washing/sanitizing throughout the fairgrounds property. Please use them regularly.

Human bottleneck areas will be lessened or eliminated in 4-H zones. In particular, access to livestock show line-up areas will be restricted to youth only.

High contact surfaces will be sanitized regularly. Designated 4-H Public Health Officers will continuously rotate throughout the 4-H zones to keep key surfaces sanitized.

We hope these collective standards will give 4-H exhibitors “piece of mind” toward participating in the 4-H Division of the 2020 State Fair.

Major Changes to Qualifying for State Fair

Due to our inability to conduct trainings earlier this year, annual YQCA certification is no longer required for affected species. YQCA online certification is recommended.

County-level qualifying requirement deleted across all project areas. That is, even if you did not or could not show at the county level you are still eligible to show at state fair so long as you met other registration requirements. Partial eligibility rule—which limited the level of participation for replaced animals—similarly waived for this year.

Registration Changes

4-H members will only be able to register the number of exhibits indicated in the following project area guidance (see individual species pages). These new limits are per species not breed or type.

For example, if a member shows both breeding sheep and market lambs, a total of 2 sheep may be brought to the State Fair. This may mean 1 market lamb and 1 breeding ewe or 2 breeding ewes, or 2 market lambs.

If animals become injured/sick and are not able to be shown at the State Fair, exhibitors will continue to use the current animal replacement guideline found on page 17 of the 2020 State Fair Book.
